Teaching

Persuasion and the Truth, Spring '21

I created and taught a course that approaches traditional philosophical topics through the lens of the art and science of persuasion.

Systematic Thinking, Spring '18, Spring '20, Fall '20, Spring '21

I created and taught a course specifically to help students learn how to connect their various philosophical positions together and begin to develop systematic philosophical worldviews with the help of system builders of the early modern period.

Citizenship: Voting, Representation, and Parties, Fall '19

I created and taught a course to teach students the various ethical positions they might take on the issues surrounding citizenship.

Certificates:

"Designing for Impact" Fort Lewis Teaching Course, Fall '21

Graduate Student Mentor Program, ND Philosophy, 2017-2021

I mentored many graduate students in the Notre Dame Philosophy Department from their first year through their dissertation work.

Early Modern Reading Group Co-Founder, ND Philosophy, 2015-2020

I helped organize a reading group in my area of specialty for fellow graduate students in the Notre Dame Philosophy Department.

Consultant, PhilSurvey.org project, 2018-2019

I assisted the developers of PhilSurvey.org—a large-scale effort to systematize philosophical knowledge—in conceptual problems they faced as they planned the implementation of their system.

Editorial Assistant, NDPR, 2016-2017

I copyedited over 400 reviews, managed records, managed mailings, and corresponded with authors and publishers for Notre Dame Philosophical Reviews.
